Paros 2 study

PAROS 2 will use Dispatcher-Assisted CPR to increase bystander CPR rate and OHCA survival rate.

This method is chosen as it is believed to yield maximal benefits at the lowest cost. Participating sites have the option to choose between the basic or comprehensive Dispatcher-Assisted CPR package, according to the sites' resources and willingness.

Dispatcher-Assisted CPR module added to e-PAROS for data collection and analysis purposes.

The basic package consists of:

DA-CPR protocol

Training program (online training is also available)

The comprehensive package consists of:

DA-CPR protocol

Training program (online training is also available)

Dispatch quality measurement tool

Quality improvement program

Overall / Progam Aim

- ▶ PAROS phase 1 (2010 to 2013): outcomes registry to understand OHCA in Asia and test hypotheses on relative cost-effectiveness of OHCA interventions.
 - ▶ PAROS phase 2: To improve OHCA survival by increasing the bystander CPR rates in Singapore and the Asia-Pacific
 - ▶ Bystander CPR identified as one of the key factors affecting survival
